1.	on 19 and 30 December 1953 and on 2 January 1954, Staaken airfield was apparently still occupied. The radio installation at the southwestern corner of the taxiway was guarded and lighted at night. Smoke was observed rising from the smokestack of the house between Hamburger Chaussee and the radio installation. A lieutenant wearing red-bordered black epaulets entered the radio installation while speaking Russian with a civilian. On 29 December, source learned from a German, who had performed official duty at the airfield, that the Soviet commandant had informed the president of the council of Kreis Nauen that the Soviets no longer required the airfield and its installation and that Kreis Nauen could dispose of the installation for egraphtural purposes.
